FRENCH POSITION

EXPLAINED IN NOTE Paris. February 9 .- (By the Associated Press)-Premier Poincare, in a note given out this evening, addressed to the United States and France's allies in the late war, declares flatly that France will be unable to send detegates to the proposed Genoa economic conference if any of the invited governments let it be understood that they do not accept entirely the conditions arranged at the supreme council meeting at Cannes in January, precluding any discussion of the existing peace

BY ROBERT J. BENDER, United News Staff Correspondent. (Copyright, 1922, for The Constitution.) Washington, February American government approves the plan of the European nations to gather in an economic conference at Genoa-but can not participate formally at this time in any binding agreements that may be proposed at the conclave.

America is willing and anxious to do her part in assisting Europe to economic stability-but until Europe first disposes of fundamental questions involved in laying the groundwork for that stability, the United States government can only look on.

This, according to high authority usually reliably informed, is the gist of the American answer to Italy's invitation requesting American representation at the Genoa meeting. Announcement of the American reply is expected late Friday. At the outset of the conference, if it still is to be held March 8, the United States government, under this decision, would be represented only by an "observer" if try, he said, should not be "caught Fundamental Trouble.

The fundamental cause for Euro pean chaos, in the viewpoint of American officials, is to be found in the maintenance of large armies by France, Russia and other continental countries; failure of nations to balance their budgets and failure of the allies to put the reparations question at Niagara Falls, with a market close on a practical, workable basis. These adjustments must be agreed upon first by the European powers among themselves for they all constitute strictly European problems. Once adjusted, America will be ready to participate actively in a general program of putting Europe on its feet. President Harding's decision means that this government will be an interested observer of developments in the genoa meeting, but will not send an official delegation of economic experts fully empowered to negotiate treaties. He does not close the door to future participation of this sort by the United States, however. Such participation Europe did toward setting her own house in order. Only Possible Way Out.

The president, in reaching his decision, chose the only possible way out of a delicate situation, it is stated by his advisers. To have sent an omic delegation to Genoa would have entailed the necessity of going before congress for an appropriation to cover the expenses of the same, and would have precipitated prolonged and

By the Associated Press. Washington, February 9 .- The adrisability of reducing the time clause in Henry Ford's offer for the lease of the Muscle Shoals, Ala., govern ment owned lands from 100 to 50 years was questioned indirectly today by Major General Lansing H. Beach, chief of army engineers, in testimony before the house military committee. Referring to the general policy of the government not to lease its properties for a period exceeding 50 years, General Beach, in his testimony at the second day of the hearings of the committee on the Ford proposal for the lands and plants at Muscle Shoals, said that "it is not always advisable

Secretary Weeks, who was heard by the committee yesterday at its open ing session, declared repeatedly that in his opinion it would be unwise to permit the lease of public lands or properties to private interests for so ong a period as 100 years. The engineer officer was preceded on the witness stand by Major General Williams, chief of ordnance, who occupied the greater part of the day's sessions explaining valuation of properties involved in the Ford offer. He estimated that the Warrior power plant and transmission line could be salvaged for $3,000,000 or more, and declared under examination by committee members, that figure was threefifths of all that Mr. Ford had offer would depend altogether upon what ed for the nitrate plants and other properties. They were arrested under a warrant issued by Justice of the Peace C. L. Pattillo, of Decatur, and are scheduled for a preliminary hearing Friday.

The warrant was obtained by ofrecord of Robert Wyatt, alias Robert Baldwin, negro burglar who was shot through the neck while inside of the Oakhurst pharmacy, which he had entered for the purpose of robbery. Wyatt was brought to the Grady hospital, where he recovered and is said to have made a full confession to the officers implicating Haddad

Patrolman J. N. LeSeur, of the De catur force, who was responsible for the capture of the negro, stated he saw an automobile containing two white men and a negro drive up near the store that was robbed. The negro got out of the machine and the white men waited in the machine in order to haul off the loot, it is charged They were frightened away when they discovered the officer, leaving the negro inside of the store to be caught. Police Chief W. W. Hazelrig and his son, Curtis, who with Officers L. B. Milan and Beatty have been conducting a searching investigation into the numerous robberies Wyatt is said to have admitted and checking up his confession, say they have positive evidence that Haddad and Azar were the two men who carried Wyatt to the drug store he attempted to rol in the automobile, and that they wil be able to have them identified. Wyatt is said to have admitted robbing Smith Brothers store at Oakhurst twice, obtaining money and a large amount of merchandise each time. He is also accused of robbing the Kimball grocery store, at Hayes station. The latter store was robbed 16 times during a year's period. One negro was killed by the proprietor as he was entering, and another was caught and sent to the penitentiary.

Clearing House Inadequate.

In discussing the proposed central clearing house for local unemployed. it was pointed out at the meeting of the committee Thursday afternoon that the present clearing house for the unemployed at city hall is woefully inadequate to handle the situation in anything like a satisfactory manner. The plan of the committee is to get the city to establish a clearing house which will be large enough to cope scientifically and efficiently with the unemployment situation. The city will be asked to take complete charge, to increase the clearing house office force, and to arrange for systematic co-operation of the clearing house with local civic organizations According to these plans a list of employers who want workers and of men who want employment, will be obtained, and the clearing house will have in its employment persons who will study applicants and decide for what work they are best suited. It also is planned to have a corps of workers who will create work for the It is proposed to investigate thor-

Employers Scored.

It was pointed out at the meeting that one concern had made a policy of hiring persons and not telling them what salary they would draw. When the first week passed, the employed usually found 50 or 75 cents in his pay slip. Other employers have instituted a policy of compelling workers to put up a $200 cash bond when beginning work. Several employers have disappeared, much to the chagrin of the fleeced employee.

It is also the hope of the commit tee that the clearing house will obviate the injury done by "cut-throat" agencies which prey upon desperate men and women out of work, it was declared.

American Arms Delegation Delivers Official Report on Work to Harding Thursday.

BY JOHN GLEISSNER, United News Staff Correspon Washington, February 9 .- Japan promises to prove the center of congressional fireworks when discussion

A renewed outburst of "yellov for Further Raids by peril" talk already has occurred in the house and Senator Johnson, of California, is understood to be preparing to discuss the conference treaties with particular reference to Japan's position. The revival of anti-Japanese discussion in congress, almost at the hour the American delegation Thursday was delivering its report of the arms conference to President Harding, caused distinct uneasiness in administration quarters. It forecast difficulties ahead for the American spokesmen in handling the delicate diplomatic subject which always has been a disturbing factor in relations between the United States and Japan.

Prepares Message. Harding, with the conference report efore him, is preparing his treaty message and the pacts will go to the enate either Saturday or Monday, ac-

ELECTS OFFICERS AUANIO

Officers and members of the Atlanta Scout council were elected at the annual meeting of the organization held Thursday afternoon in the town hall of the chamber of commerce.

Albert S. Adams, prominent in Atlanta civic affairs, and, since its organization in Atlanta, one of the strongest supporters of the Boy Scout movement, was elected president to succeed Mell R. Wilkinson. C. B. Howard and R. C. Darby were elected vice presidents; Kendall Weisiger, secretary; E. M. Ramspeck, treasurer; George E. Watts, commissioner, and George E. Watts, commissioner, and the following to serve as the executive committee: Mell R. Wilkinsin, Ivan E. Allen, A. R. Dyer, Benjamin Elsas, Fred S. Gould, J. S. Kennedy, Victor Kriegshaber, Charles D. McKinney, Dr. Floyd W. McRea, Jr., H. A. Maier, A. L. Myers, A. J. Stitt and W. A. Sutton.

Tribute Paid to Wilkinson. A tribute was paid to the retiring president, whose sincere devotion to the cause of scouting was declared by speakers to have been largely respon-sible for the remarkable growth of scouting in Atlanta and the high esscouting in Atlanta and the high esteem with which the local council was regarded not alone by all classes in this city but by the National Scout council as well. A committee was appointed to draft resolutions expressing the high regard the Atlanta Scout council entertain for Mr. Wilkinson, and the appreciation of its members.

and the appreciation of its members for his great service in behalf of better citizenship.

Mr. Adams was lauded over his work in scouting and his achievements work in scouting and his achievements in behalf of other civic organizations, as director of the chamber of commerce, past president of International Rotary, former president of the local club, and past president of the Advertising Club of Atlanta.

C. B. Howard, member of the finance committee, read an extended report on the finance of the Atlanta report on the finances of the Atlanta council for the period of January, 1921, through December 31, 1921. A record of accomplishment and great efficiency in management was revealed by the figures, and council was unanimous in its expression of approval over the careful handling of lunds.

nual report of A. A. Jameson, scout executive.

Mr. Jameson briefly reviewed the different classes of scouting, told how a boy became a scout, and the work which he took up in passing through the different stages of advancement. He then repeated the scout oath and the laws which every boy who becomes a scout is obliged to memorize and put into daily practice.

"The theory of good citizenship is translated into action by the Boy Scout," said Mr. Jameson. "During 1921 Atlanta Scouts answered the call to service 4,963 times and gave 13,032 hours to community service. Practically every civic and community organization called on the Boy Scouts for service during the year. "A safe outlet for the energies of the adolescent boy in a city has always been a problem, as he is cramped for room, and his desire for activity is too apt to find expression in the destruction of property and general lawlessness. But the scout idea is to take this perfectly natural desire for physical activity and not only prevent any bad effects as a result of it, but make it a means of positive education. W. Smith, mayor pro tem and leading real estate man of the town, when interviewed Thursday night.

"We are sorry that the idea has gone out that we hold up the public at large," he said. "We have a most conservative speed officer employed who never makes a case unless he finds a car going over 30 miles an hour."

In speaking of the fines imposed In speaking of the fines imposed on violators of the traffic regulations of the town, Councilman Smith declared that some measures are necessary for the protection of the school children who cross the road. Besides, he added, the fines are never excessive, although court costs are another matter, and it is around the alleged excessive court costs imposed by Mayor Ed Waggoner, that the controversy between the mayor and council revolves.

Charges Against Mayor

Charges Against Mayor.

Reiterating his charges that the mayor has been spending the town's money illegally; has been adding excessive court costs to fines imposed on motorists, and that, in addition, the proposed appointment of a clerk of the court without the authority of council is contrary to the provisions of the court without the authority of council, is contrary to the provisions of the charter, Councilman Smith declared that he would prove his assertions at the next meeting of council.

"I do not think the mayor or clerk have misappropriated funds," said Mr. Smith Thursday night, "but there is reason to believe they have used is reason to believe they have used the town's funds recklessly, negligent-ly and extravagantly. Council has been informed that the mayor or the clerk are liable for sums lying be-tween $1,200 and $1,300, that have been spent without the authority of council. The town's money has been thrown away."

In rebutting the charges made against him, the mayor stated Thursday that there are no grounds for the allegations, and that he would rest his case on the results of the audit being made of the records, which will be completed by Saturday. Mayor Waggoner will call a meeting of coun-cil Monday night to hear the report of the auditing committee and to vin-dicate himself of the charges made by the opposing faction.

Keeps on Assessing Costs. Despite the ruling of Paul Lindsay. city attorney, that no costs can be collected by the police court under the provisions of the charter, Mayor Waggoner is adhering to his usual cus-tom in imposing fines and costs. No announcement has been made, however, of the appointment of a new clerk, the mayor having been inform-ed that he had no right under the charter to name the clerk of the council, who also acts as clerk of the

I don't believe the mayor is guilty knowingly of a violation of the law, although his charging costs isn't authorized. What the other side wants to stop is this use of the police court as a means of the police court as a means of revenue, and that is what will done."

CHINESE EGGS. Dispatches from New York reveal the astounding fact that nearly 100,000 eggs were received in New York last week from China, and about double that number are due this week.

It takes the Chinese eggs five weeks to get here, three weeks on the water and two weeks from Vancouver by rail. Being fresh when gathered, they arrive here in fairly good condition, although the contents of the eggs are usually slightly shrunken. The eggs are smaller than domestic eggs and weigh four to five pounds less per case.

chiefly to cheaper class retail ores and to bakeries. They do not compete directly with fancy fresh eggs from nearby sections, but rank in about the same class as average cold storage eggs.

The largest importations of eggs from China are in the form of frozen eggs removed from the shells and put up in cans for bakery use, and in the dried or powdered form. The latest custom house figures for December show receipts at the port of New York from foreign countries of a total of 779,353 pounds of dried eggs. Of this amount over 515,000 pounds came from China. The rest came from England and

"Egg producers in this country," said Herschel H. Jones, director of the New York office of the State Department of Farms and Markets, "are much opposed to these importations of eggs from China and have long been advocating a higher protective tariff on them, on the ground that labor conditions and costs of production were so low in China as to make competition of the Chinese eggs destructive to the American poultry industry."

It seems unbelievable that foreign eggs can compete with those produced in our own country, for perhaps no country in the world is so admirably adapted for poultry raising as the United States, with grain crops in such variety and abundance.

After a survey of cotton growing under boil weevil conditions in Texas, Mississippi, Arkansas, Alabama and southwest Georgia, James A. Hollomon, staff correspondent of The Atlanta Constitution, is thoroughly convinced that agricultural prosperity is possible in any community where cotton has been the principal crop no matter how complete the boil weevil infestation may be. Mr. Hollomon has found prosperous farmers, plenty of them, all along the path of the boil weevil from Texas to Georgia. This does not mean that any tarmer can prosper in spite of the boil weevil on the contrary, it is in fittless, that contrary, it is in the contrary, it is a drastic reduction of the weevil or all, while it is so silent, and take boil weevil how overrum his place. Mr. Hollomon declares that it cannot be done any other way and ANY EFFORT TO PLANT AND CULTIVATE A NORMAL ACREAGE OF COTTON SPELLS RUIN BEFORE A SEED IS PUT IN THE GROUND.

The substance of Mr. Hollomon's conclusions in this article are: "Cut down cotton acreage, to where one man can give close attention to every stalk of cotton, cultivate only by intensive methods. This is an absolute prerequisite to successful

These appearing in The Tribune from Mr. Hollomon on the boll weevil. These letters are timely and cover the situation completely. I am glad that our farmers have had the opportunity of getting this report of the fight made by farmers in all of the other cotton growing states that have been overrun with weevils. If we will apply the methods advocated by Mr. Hollomon and found effective by the farmers of other states, especially those around Troy and Dothan, Ala., we will sustain the least possible damage from the boll weevil. If we do only one thing those farmers have done—reduce the cotton acreage to the point where it can be properly handled—we will have gone a long way towards winning the fight. If we do not reduce our acreage far more than we have ever done before we will be unable to handle the situation successfully, if we do not have a dry summer. Everything has been against us this winter so far as weather is concerned, and we have enly to hope for a dry summer. (From the Macon Telegraph." Pastor T. D. Ellis, of Mulberry in common with all who are seeking a sane, common-sense, humanitarian and Christian solution of the race problem, is entitled to the commendation of active co-operation. As Mr. Ellis pointed out in his Sunday night discourse on the race problem, since the white man brought the negro here for mercenary motives, he is under the special obligation to turn the negro's temporary captivity into a blessing—the greatest possible blessing to the negro race as well as to the greatest possible good and the least possible harm to the white race. As Mr. Ellis also pointed out, the surest way for the white race to degrade itself is to hate the negro and to lower his standard. And as Mr. Ellis further sees, and as the Telegraph has been hammering away on, the bars to race purity and to race integrity are to be put up much tighter than they have been heretofore.

The best elements of both races ing a sane, common-sense, humani-

The best elements of both races must unite to forestall further crimes against race integrity and race purity. Once bring about the right conception, teaching and public opinion on this subject; settle once and for all that there must be no further crossing over the line by whites as well as having settled that there is an inexecrable doom that rests upon the colored race for even approaching the line, and it should be easy to enlist all the best white people in the purpose and effort to give the negro race every opportunity to enable it to come to itself in terms of its inherent nature, characteristics and environment. The white people in the south upon the whole are very fond of the old-time negro—the hegro who protected the white women and children during the civil war when the white men were away from home on the battlefield, the negro who did his work and knew his place well, the negro who was rightly looked upon as a protection and never once thought of as a menace or a danger. race purity. Once bring about the The great problem for the best element of the colored people is to wage an unrelenting and successwage an unrelenting and successful warfare against every point of view and tendency that would make their white neighbors fearful and distrustful. If the leaders of the negro race will successfully tackle and hanadle this side of the race problem, they will make it easy for the best element of the white race to get together to see what can be done for the colored people in the way of sanitation, health, education, economic betterment, and opportunities for self-development along all legitimate lines.

Of course, the white people should

Of course, the white people should freely give their service in helping to work out better living conditions and better opportunities for the colored people. This is necessary for self-protection as well as for the practice of the Christianity we claim to believe. As Pastor Ellis pointed out Sunday night, if the negro population is allowed to become the breeding place of physical and moral disease, the health of the whole comunity is in danger; and higher than this, the white people can never come to themselves in the fullest and best sense except in becoming friends and aiders of the weaker and less-developed people among them.

While the sudden freeing rather to work out better living conditions

While the sudden freeing rather than the gradual emancipation of the negro race here in the south may be responsible for a great deal of the evil tendencies and practices of the worst element that have come to light in recent years, possibly the larger reason is that the white people have failed to give them the guidance and the help that good sense, humanity and Christianity required. As we understand it, the main purpose of Mr. Ellis and others who are tackling the problem is to do now what we should have been doing all the white, namely, to head off the dangers and to lend friendly counsel and friendly aid. The problem in the light of Christianity is simply to find the Christian solution and to apply the Christian spirit. the negro race here in the south

HOW WORDS COME TO PICTURE IDEAS

Philologists Can Read History From Words a Country Uses.

Sometimes words are borrowed bodily from another language. Sometimes a root-word is borrowed, oftenest from the Latin or Greek, and an English ending given it. Again, we take two old words, join them together and make a new one. At first we separate them by the hyphen, but separate them by the hyphen, but after awhile that is left out, and the two are mingled as a single word. Then, we take a prefix, or a suffix, from some other tongue, and add it, after or before, and we have another new word. Or when a word is too long, we shorten it—because we English-speaking people are great for saving time.

"Dancing is something more than mere keeping time to music," Mme. Pavlowa told an interviewer in a western city. "It is a great art, and something more than an art. It is really a religion with me.

"Dancing, the poetry of motion, can interpret the music of the great composers even as the pianist, the violinist, the singer interprets it. Grace, beauty, fine art—all these are found in the dance.

"But jazz! There is nothing beautiful, nothing uplifting, nothing graceful in either the music or the dancing which it accompanies. But I am told by those who know that jazz is dying—for which we should be truly thankful."

Mme. Pavlowa believes that dancing is necessary for the development of physical grace, beauty and health.

Miss Sherwood And Mrs. Rice Honor Guests

Mrs. Charles E. Sciple, at her home on Peachtree.

Small tables had baskets of different spring flowers, the candles on each table matching in color the flowers in the centerpieces. Narcissi, hyacinths, red roses, pink roses, sweetpeas, violets and jonquils combined with the Valentine place cards, gave a most artistic and charming rainbow effect.

Mrs. Sciple was assisted by Mrs. Edgar Poe McBurney.

An out-of-town guest given cordial welcome at the luncheon was Mrs. Cliff R. Atchison, of New York, who, with Dr, Atchison, is spending a few days at the Georgian Terrace. Her French gown was a Patou model in blue serge embroidered in large steel beads, which also formed a design on the low, henna-colored girdle. The hat was a small shape in black.

Mrs. Grantland Rice was gowned in dark blue charmeuse, with petal toque in fuchsia color.

Graceful vines, palms and vases of fragrant blossoms were used in effective arrangement as decorations in the beautiful home. Dinner was served at 8 o'clock, after which dancing was enjoyed. A splendid or chestra rendered the musical program.

Assisting Mrs. King.

Dr. and Mrs. King were assisted in entertaining the guests by Dr. and Mrs. Thornwell Jacobs, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Ashcraft, Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey Hopkins, Mrs. Joseph Lamar and Mrs. Charles Northen.

Punch was served by Misses Dorothy Orr and Josephine Hagan. They wore dainty frocks in the pastel shade. The punch bowl was attractively arranged in a mound of green vines, together with bright flowers.

Mrs. King was enjoyed. A splendid or chestra rendered the musical program.

She thanked heaven now for her inscrutable face, when she became conscious of the fact that her young husband was regarding her curiously. "I say, did you think I was heir to the Barstowe millions?" he asked. She managed a shrug. "I never gave it much thought," she replied carelessly. "I dare say everyone thinks so. . . . But what difference does it make?"

what difference does it make?"

"It might make a good deal of difference to some people," Barstowe admitted. "But not to anyone as Forgive me for even the uspicion that"-He paused. She raised her quiet eyes to his. "What suspicion?"

"Oh, nothing! I feel like a cad even to have had the momentary thought that perhaps—perhaps Dad's money had meant something to you when you promised to marry me."

"My darling!"
He sprang up, gathered her in his arms, holding her close.
"Forgive me! I was a brute to say such a thing. But I love you with every fibre of my being, every beat of my heart, and the thought that maybe you could never care for me without my gilded background was like a swordthrust. . . . Tell me you will care some day."

She lifted her lips to his.
"I think I almost do now," she said.

She was acting, playing a part with a desperate recklessness.

There was only one conscious thought in her mind: Not to let him suspect her dismay. Even if he wasn't the Barstowe heir, there might be a way to get money yet if she played her cards right.

The awful nightmare of her unpaid bills sourced her on.

The awful nightmare of her unpaid bills spurred her on.

She was scarcely conscious of Barstowe's kisses. She did not hear the endearments he was whispering, his lips against her hair. She did not resist when he brought her back to a corner of the divan and seated himself beside her, keeping her within the circle of his arms.

"Now I'll tell you all about it, sweetheart," he began. "I dare say we ought to have had this talk long ago, but I've been living in paradise for weeks and weeks, and such mundane matters hadn't a look-in.

You see," he went on, "Dad has always had a horror of the so-called rich man's son. He thought I had some pretty good stuff in me when I was growing up, and he declared he didn't want to see me wasting it along the primrose path in the way so many of his wealthy friends' sons were doing. I respect Dad's opinion enormously, so, when he gave me a straight-from-the-shoulder talk, I agreed with everything he said. The rist of the agreement was this. On agreed with everything he said. The gist of the agreement was this: On my twenty-first birthdey Dad was to my twenty-first birthdey Dad was to give me a good round sum, enough to start a business of my own, to set me on my feet financially in a handsome manner. After that, it would be up to me. If I made a flivver, it was because I hadn't the right stuff in me. If I put it over, I had a chance to make pretty close to the fortune Dad has, and I had the added advantage of a darned good sendoff tune Dad has, and I had the added advantage of a darned good send-off, whereas Dad began his career as an office boy. He made every cent of his fortunte through hard labor, so it's not to be wondered at that he didn't want to see a young rounder fritter it away. Art Life of Atlanta and New Orleans Is Compared by Mrs. Benjamin Elsas

"New Orleans is as charming as it was in the heyday of its fame as a place unique among American cities."

Mrs. Benjamin Elsas was the speaker, and she has just returned from a week's visit there, where she crowded much of observation, especially of the artistic life, into her short stay.

"I find that we in Atlanta have much to learn from New Orleans, but I am glad to say that we have something we can give them. The developof their Little Theater was a marvel to me, and I longed for something like it here at home. On the other hand, our Atlanta Music club is doing more pretentious work in artist concerts than is the New Orleans Phillemonic, and also New Orleans Phillemonic, and also New Orleans is constantly amazed at the constructive publicity Atlanta newspapers give Atlanta's artistic projects, and long for a similar aid in their own ventures, and so I was glad to send them The Constitution's news story about the proposed interstate orchestra which the music clubs of Atlanta, New Orleans and Birmingham are proposing. As yet this orchestra idea is only in the visionary stage, but everything worth while must start with a vision was in the heyday of its fame as a the visionary stage, but everything worth while must start with a vision and a backing in publicity such as The Constitution has given this and other musical movements which have known out of theory into achievement. The New Orleans people say they envy-The Little Theater.

"I was fortunate enough to be in the Orleans for a production by the Players' club of one of their Little Theater productions. It was Rachel Carruthers' play, 'He and She,' The entire cast was amateur, except one man, the coach, who is also a member of the faculty of Tulary university, but there was nothing to suggest amateur work in the character of the production. Over the emotional scenes I could not restrain my tears, and my satisfaction in the whole perparamence I felt was the more significant in that I had seen the same play put on professionally in New York, some years ago. by Hilda Spong and a typical New York cast.

"The membership of the Players' performances be given in order that all the members may see it. The actions have rebelled because they can not give so much time, and plans are practically complete for the securing of larger quarters. The membership and, a matter which will not be difficult at all, because there is such a demand that even with the doubled

French Quarter. Mrs. Elsas was enthusiastic concerning the old French quarter, which is being restored, largely through the influence of fashion, both in the social and in the artistic world, just as the most exclusive element of Fifth avenue society is moving its residences down to an East river frontage.

"I was fortunate snough to have at

"I was fortunate enough to have at different times the artistic guidance of an enthusiastic young architect, who has his studio over the Little Theater, and who showed me the restoration in progress from the standpoint of the architect, and then to have the guidance of a woman whose interest I might call sentimental, since she is herself of an old Oreole family and loves it all.

"One of my most interesting visits was to a lovely spot called the 'Virgin's Garden,' which is owned by two interesting old French women, Pauline and Marie Abadie, whom the French, with their love for nicknames, call Popo and Meme. They are as old-fashioned and interesting as their garden, which has a famous shrine. They have a piano one hundred years old, and they played the "Marseillaise" with a reverence like a prayer. When they asked me to sing, the last verse of the Battle Hymn of the Republic seemed to me the most appropriate thing for the setting and the spirit of Pauline and Marie. When I left they gave me the most charming old-fashioned tight bouquet of flowers from the garden. "Luncheon in the patio, an old French residence, where, in fair weather, we were able to have our tables out of doors, was one of our experiences of typical old New Orleans. It is just next door, by the way, that Mrs. Rosalie Nixon, who has so many friends in Atlanta, has her most interesting and charming bookshop. "The New Orleans Philharmonic so-

Chadron was gaping in amazement.

Macdonald felt that he understood the change in King. The major had come there full of the intention of doing Chadron's will; he had not a doubt of that. Macdonald's belt had slipped free of his body. With its burden of cartridges and its two long pistols, it lay at Frances' feet. She stooped, a little sound in her throat between a sob and a cry, jerked one of the guns out, wheeled upon Chadron, and fired. The lieutenant struck up her ing out of her hand.

The officer brightened. He believed it could be arranged. Inside of an hour he had Tom Lassiter around with a team and a spring wagon in which the homesteaders laid Macdonald tenderly upon a bed of hay.

Frances was carrying Macdonald's cartridge-belt and revolvers, the confiscation of which had been overlooked by Major King in the excitement of the shooting.

And why had Major King ordered her, virtually under arrest, to Alamito Ranch, instead of sending her in disgrace to the post? Was it because he feared that she would communicate with her father from the post, or merely to take a mean revenge upon her. He had taken the newspaper correspondent with him, and certainly would see that no more of the truth was sent out by him from that flameswept country for several days. In the meantime, the Drovers' association would be at work, spreading money with free hand, corrupting evidence with the old dyes of falsehood.

Love and Death.

Maggie and Alvino had the ranch to themselves when the military party from the upper valley arrived, Mrs. Chadron and Nola having driven to Meander that morning.

Under the direction of Frances, Maggie had placed a cot in Mrs. Chadron's favored sitting-room with the fireplace. There Macdonald lay in clean sheets, a blaze on the hearth, and Maggie washing his wound with hot water, groaning in pity.

"I think that he will live, miss," she said hopefully. "See, he has a strong breath on my damp hand—I can feel it, like a little wind."

She spoke in her native tongue, which Frances understood thoroughly from her years in Texas and Arizona posts. Frances shook her head sorrowfully.

URGE NEW SCHOOL FOR THE CHILDREN OF ANSLEY PARK

A deluge of postcards from citizens of Ansley Park urging the establishment of a new grammar school in that section, between Peachtree street and Piedmont avenue, were being received at the mayor's office hursday.
It was pointed out by some of the citizens who are seeking the new school that in many instances children in Ansley Park must walk more than a mile to school.

Alderman Harry Goodhart, of the Eighth ward, announced Thursday he will assist the citizens in securing the school. He expressed the opinion that Ansley Park is growing at a rate that would warrant a school build-

5 PER CENT PROFIT SHARING DECLARED BY LOAN SOCIETY

The general board of the Beneficial Loan society has declared 5 per cent profit sharing for the year 1921, payable February 10 to holders of its 6 per cent gold debenture bonds. Holders of these bonds dated January 1, 1914, are entitled to at least one-third of the net profits in addition to the 6 per cent bond interest. Profit sharing heretofore paid was 1 per cent for 1914, 2 per cent for 1915 and 5 per cent for 1916 and each year since, a total of 11 per cent. society has declared

PATTERSON & SON FIRST TO RECEIVE CEMENT CASKETS

The latest product of the casket manufacturer and one of the most up-to-date burial cases is the cement casket. From time immemorial, rulers of mankind have been laid to rest in tombs of granite or heavy metal, such as bronze, steel, copper or other imperishable material. To emphasize the permanence of any object the Romans were accustomed to refer to it as being "as durable as bronze."

as being "as durable as bronze."

The cement casket has the enduring qualities of bronze and steel, with the surprising feature of no increase in weight. Since it is made of cement, being cast around a network of steel or basket, is imperishable, indestructible, and will not crumble under the ceaseless action of the elements and the ruthless ravages of time Cement capkets are stone shells. Cement caskets are stone shells with one of the weight and crudity of stone, and upon the manner of their construction and the details of de-sign and finish is laid as much stress as their impregnable nature. The caskets are covered with the best of materials, broadcloths and silk plushes in black and gray for adult caskets, lambskins, broadcloth and embossed plush in pure white for children. Cement caskets from a standpoint of beauty are without peers, cost no more than any other high-grade casket of steel, copper or bronze, and the wealth of designs in which they are finished will please the taste of the most exacting.

Dr. D. M. McIver Begins New Duties as Pastor Of Church in Carolina

Dr. D. M. McIver, former pastor of the Druid Hills Presbyterian church, who resigned to accept a call to Bishopville, S. C., has taken up his duties there. Dr. McIver resigned several weeks before he left Atlanta but the members of his congregation made numerous appeals for him to reconsider but were unsuccesful. The press comments on the first sermon preached by Dr. McIver were very complimentary. The Bishopville Presbyterian church was established more than a quarter of a century ago.

New York, February 9 .- While the cotton market today started out with sentiment still bullish and first prices 6 to 22 points higher, it developed an unsettled feeling before the day was over and near the close became rather heavy with the final tone barely steady and prices unchanged to 10 points net lower.

On the early advance, during which May sold up to 17.02 and July to 16.58, or 19 to 22 points above the previous night, Wall street, the south. New Orleans, trade interests and western houses were good buyers. The latter were influenced doubtless by the early advance in wheat, while the strength of cables, coupled with firmness in sterling exchange and re-ports of a better spot business in the south, encouraged much of the local support which developed in the first

PROFESSIONAL VIEWS

ON COTTON SITUATION

New York, February 9.—(Special.)—Our market, influenced by better cables from Liverpool, opened 18 to 20 points over last night's close. Manchester dispatches asy inquiries are broadening with the possibility of more business in the future. The Liverpool market was higher on short covering and later chased off due to selling in our market, the strade expecting a natural reaction after the advance of yesterday. Our Atlants representative wired that a better spot demand was in evidence, with the basis improving. There has been no decision from New England regarding the proposed strike throughout the New England mills, though's the strike has been more or less of a depressing factor in the market. The increased demand has overcome this to a good extent. We anticipate a moderate reaction but eventually expect the market to advance,

New Orleans, February 9.—Pronounced strength was shown by cotton in the early trading today, but after the first selling flurry the market hesitated and then entered a period of small recessions, mainly because of realizing on the long side.
In the late trading the market went all to pieces under the report over private wires of the failure of one of the oldest private banks in France.
This failure had an effect on the market out of all proportion to its im-ket out of all proportion to its importance, possibly because it came on the heels of the application for a receivership for a large industrial concern on this side of the water. To-ward the end of the day the market was at its lowest, at net losses of 7 to 18 points. The close was at net losses of 7 to 15 points. March broke down to 15.94 and closed at the low-est.

The opening was higher and in the early trading the active months went 21 to 25 points over the last prices of yesterday to 16.26 for March. Much better Liverpool cables than due caused much of the early buying, but longs went to realizing almost immediately and new selling appeared, apparently because of the absence of any new activity in the spot department. Liverpool messages to brokers here, stating that merchants were buying spot out of the Liverpool stock instead of importing from the United States, left an unfavorable impression and increased the disposition to sell, completely offsetting the effect of the firmness of sterling exchange.

New Issues Take Lead

In Market Recovery

BY R. L. BARNUM

New York, February 9.-Increased purchasing power of farmers, which has resulted from recent advances in prices of farm products and decreases in other lines was cited by Secretary Wallace tonight in an address before the National Retail Dry Goods association as "a hopeful sign to industry in general."

Estimating that farmers and their families represented 40 per cent of the population, Mr. Wallace declared every phase of business should be interested in "every sensible effort to get farming back on a

The secretary denied what he termed the widely-held notion that farmers in the corn belt states had plunged into land speculation during the war years. Probably not more than 10 per cent of the cultivated land changed hands, he said.

"The farmer has taken his full share, and more, of liquidation," Mr. Wallace declared. "He has the right to expect that others, such as manufacturers, railroads, laboring men, retailers will follow his example. Prices of things must come down.

"Farmers always have been and are now the great stabilizing force

The so-called "farm legislation" of the past year, the speaker said, has been of just as much benefit to all classes as it is to the farmer, being designed to put "40 per cent of our people in a position to help

Improvement of River Freight Traffic Planned

BY P. R. WILLIAMS.

Juliette, Ga., February 9 .- (Spe- cities on these rivers have demon cial.)-Steps have been taken to re-strated their willingness to help co sume navigation on the Ocmulgee and Altamaha system of rivers, and if the project is successful cargoes will be moving to and from Macon on the Ocmulgee within a few months. The Macon Chamber of Commerce is actively behind the movement and has been assured of the co-operation of business men and others who realize what immeasurable benefits would accrue to that city and territory from navigation.

Strated their willingness to help cooperate in a movement of this kind, which means so much to them in rewhich means so much to them in reof reight can not be kept moving up and down the system. Government engineers realize this, and that is why recommended that all business interests come together and perfect a strong organization instead of localizing the project.

All previous attempts to make navigation of the Altamaha river successful have been local and more or less sporadic. But this year all towns and business interests touching upon these rivers are united behind the movement. Some time ago a meeting of business men and city officials and others in towns along the Altamaha river system from Macon to tidewater was held in Brunswick, and definite results are expected later. Several months

They advised Macon and other cities on the river fronts to form an asso-ciation composed of men in every town interested. This was done and government engineers immediately surveyed the rivers to determine what would be necessary to make them navi-

They will soon outline a program and congress will then be asked to make a sufficient appropriation to carry on the work. Senator W. J. Harris already has appeared before the rivers and harbors committee of congress and the government engineers at Washington in the interest of having these rivers made navigable. Only $20,000 has been appropriated by congress to be spent on the Cemulgee river from Macon to the sea. This amount is so small that little benefit can be derived. It is not sufficient to keep is so small that little benefit can be derived. It is not sufficient to keep in repair machinery required in the gineers is favorable, the committee will recommend sufficient funds for the

Provided congress will make an appropriation sufficiently large to have the channels made deeper and wider, and the river cleared of obstacles, there is but little doubt that sufficient capital will be raised to put a fleet of freight vessels into operation. The transportation department of the Macon Chamber of Commerce is especially interested in the project. It is believed the business men in Macon will subscribe to a fund and more will subscribe to a fund and more than a dozen other cities along the river front are directly interested, financially and otherwise.

held in Brunswick, and definite results are expected later. Several months ago the Altamaha River Improvement association was organized. Members of the organization are city officials, business men and shippers of Macon, Dublin, Lumber City, Abbeville and half a dozen other towns o: the river. Before this association was formed information as to resuming navigation and what procedure to take was secured from government engineers, the rivers and harbors committee of congress, and business interests affected. They advised Macon and other cities

The purpose of the inspection was Ocmulgee, Oconee and Altamaha rivers."

The purpose of the inspection was to determine if the Oconee and Altamaha rivers are of sufficient importance to justify a larger appropriation for their development as a means of navigation. The existing project for development of rivers that can be made navigable was adopted by the rivers and harbors committee in 1912. It provides for a channel three feet deep during summer low water from Brunswick to Milledgeville and Macon. The appropriation made for this improvement is only $40,000, and for that reason no progress has been made.

Stock Letter.

Atlanta offices of Doremus-Daniel & Co., yesterday received the following comment over its leased wires:

While the average of the industrials was off about \(\frac{6}{9} \), of a point yesterday, the rails advanced aimost a quarter. It may have been that there was an attempt to take profits in the industrials under cover of the strength in the rails. If so, the attempt was not very successful, as buyers appeared to be somewhat more willing than they have been to follow the rails to the exciusion of the industrials.

One of the reasons ascribed for selling is the fear of a sales tax on open market securities transactions, but we do not think that it would be wise to lay too much stress upon this at present time as a depressing market factor of major importance.

We expect the irregularity in the industrials to be continued at opening this morning, but doubt that the weakness so far shown indicates the beginning of what might be called a substantial reaction.

Wo do not think that the attempts to mark up the rails have ended, but believe that speculation in them will broaden and that they will see higher prices during the next several days.

Much discussion after close regarding possible effects of certain provisions of bonus act on security dealings. Generally believed that if proposed tax on stock and bond transfers becomes effective, as suggested by Fordney, result will be most serious from viewpoint of security market. Talk about bonus legislation was chief disturbing feature of the market yesterday. Bank of England rate unchanged at 5 per cent.

Borde expected to begin fight in senate against bonus bill, charging increase in taxation betrayal of republican piedge and grave mistake to tax many for benefit of few.

Sentiment develops in ways committee against Fordney's stock bord and real estate tax plan, feeling prevailing tax should be widely distributed.

President Cromwell, of stock exchanges, says proposal by Fordney to impose tax of 1.5 of 1 per cent on stock and bond transfers would indefinitely postpone business recovery and cripple America's international financial leadership.

Mellen calls in $400,000,000 outstanding tax-except 3% per cent Victory notes for redemption at par on June 15 next and announces conversion privilege of Victory notes will be suspended beginning February 9.

Probe Started.

New York, February 9.—Investigation into the affairs of twenty-five Wall street brokerage concerns, whose failures within the past two months have led to charges of "bucket-shop" operations, has begun with the presentation of evidence to the supreme court grand jury here by District Aftorney Banton and the attorney-general of the state.

As a result of previous investigations, it has been openly declared that many of the bankrupt concerns operated with all the brazen and illegal methods of the old-time bucket shop, and after succeeding crashes customers throughout the United States have lost more than $10,000,000.

Receivers appointed for some of the defunct firms have reported that account books, ledgers and other records have desuppeared with the office fittings.

Subpoenas were issued Thursday for the books of the American Cotton and Grain exchange.

U. S. CREDIT AID IS NOW PLANNED FOR RAILROADS

Washington, February 2.—Means of lending the aid of the government's credit to the railroads of the country are under consideration in administracircles, it was indicated today by high officials. Any such plan, how-ever, it was stated, would not involve the use of government money for ren-dering financial assistance to the car-riers by the use of federal credit. Secretary Hoover suggested today that a government guarantee of rail-road equipment trust certificates make them attractive to investors and enable the roads to raise money for needed rolling stock without the ex-penditure of funds from the treasury. Secretary Mellon is also understood to regard favorably the idea of lend-ing the government's credit to the car-riers on the theory that better busiconditions generally would result improvement in the railroad situ-n. If any such steps should be in the opinion of Atprobably would be necessary and in this case some difficulty might be en-

The need of the railroads for more equipment is their own difficulty, in the opinion of Secretary Hoover, who said today it was up to the railroads to take the leadership in presenting some constructive plan for providing funds. The railroads' troubles, he as-serted, "were in anticipation" which made any relief measures difficult of adoption at this time. He expressed adoption at this time. He expressed the belief that if the shortage of cars became sufficiently acute there would be pressure from all sides to remedy the situation. Underequipremedy the situation. Underequip-ment of railroads, he maintained, had its effect on the employment situation and upon agricultural conditions. Sec retary Mellon is also understood to coincide with this method. Use of the government's credit has already been extended to the farmers, Mr. Hoover pointed out, in the guaranteeing of farm loan bonds. He indicated that some such method might be utilized to aid in the railroads if the emergency should become suffi-ciently acute to require assistance.

Harry Downing and Lee Revue, a beautifully staged and deftly constructed offering, heads the vauderwile program at Loew's Grand theater for the last half of the week. Harry Downing, a splendid looking young chap, is gifted with a double voice which aids him materially in putting over his several well selected song numbers. There are five in the company, Mignon Hallin being the feature dancer. She is both pretty and talented and well equipped with the latest fads in the art of terpsichore. All of the company exhibit versatile novelties which rounds out a novel and amusing miniature production.

Of course, he said, if a higher bid for the passenger ships, other than that of the contemplated company was received this would settle the matter, but he in dicated that the board preferred a customer which would "represent all the people of the Pacific coast and that will be organized in the national interest, rather than by a capitalistic group for profit only."

Revealing a society of marital mix-up of exceptional interest, Cecil B. DeMille's splendid production, "Saturday Night," is being shown with great success at the Howard theater. The theme, which proves that men and women who marry outside their own environment frequently find time to repent of their rashness, was admirably presented. To reveal the story would be unjust to the reader, and it is perhaps sufficient to say that Jeanie Macpherson, who wrote it, never displayed her skill to better advantage. According to official figures more than 17,000 school teachers in Ger-many are without positions. The city of Berlin has just given notice to 500 teachers of their dismissal. WHEN SHIP BURNS Visit to Atlanta

This was definitely established this afternoon from statements of sur-vivors who are in Norfolk and New-

Captain William Lusti, master of the Northern Pacific, declined this morning to make a statement, but members of his crew were not quiet so reticent. They suspect foul play before the ship left her berth on the ill-fated voyage, but realizing they can prove nothing, decline to make any direct charge or statement. The Northern Pacific's destruction took a new turn this morning when company attempted to get sworn statements from the survivors. The crew, evidently having been cautioned by the master, had nothing whatsoever to say. Captain Lusti had warned his men accident and those who at one time appeared willing to give further details of the disaster now are silent. The master was asked pointblank concerning reports that the ship might have been "fixed" by someone before she left her berth. He quickly demanded to know from whence the report came and on being told that it could not be traced to its source said that he must decline to answer any and all questions. He did not know that the shipping board has ruled that the ship was regarded as the property of the charterers or operators and intimated that ther will be litigation growing out of this phase of the situation. The ship was insured to the account of the charterers, but was not to be finally delivered until reconditioning was completed.

Captain Lusti now is dictating a confidential report to the shipping board. The statement is a lengthy one, and goes into detail. "If the shipping board makes it public after they receive it you will then have the situation of the constitution, who have the shipping board makes it public after they receive it you will then have appeared willing to give further deantil reconditioning was completed.

SIXTH FIRE VICTIM FOUND IN RICHMOND

Richmond, Va., February 9 .- Burned beyond recognition, the sixth vic-tim of the Lexington hotel fire was taken from the ruins at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The body is thought to be that of a man, as fragments of a vest were found nearby. The head is miss-ing and only the stumps of limbs re-

Covered by the remnants of a carpet he had evidently pulled over himself in an effort to ward off the flames, the body of E. J. Bush, of Cincinnati, a salesman, was found this morning in the southeast corner of what was once the Pearl L.undry property, in the rear of the Lexington hotel.

He was identified by several letters found in a pocket of his coat, slightly burned and water-soaked, but legible. They were all addressed to "E. J. Bush," and were from persons in Laconia, N. H.

conia, N. H.

The floor of the building is believed to have fallen with Bush as he was trying to make his reape. The feet were completely gone, as were the Horror Increasing.

The toll or the fire now stands: Six known dead, two known to be hidden in the wreckage, one man, Andrew! Galles, of Buffalo, N. Y., dying from a broken back and internal injuries: three in a critical condition in local a broken back and internal injuries; three in a critical condition in local hospitals and ten still missing.

It is considered certain that the bodies of Poirier and Cox are still buried beneath the ruins.

The finding of the body of E. T. Cox, who lent financial aid to the proprietor of the hotel, is expected momentarily. Cox slept in a corner room on the fourth floor, almost directly over the spot where the rescuers are now digging. It is considered enare now digging. It is considered en-tirely probable that other bodies were so crushed by the tons of brick which fell on them that they will be hardly noticeable. It was learned today that Bennie Meade, 19 years old, a messenger boy, first sounded the alarm. Mandatory minimum wage laws for women, with rates fixed by a commission, are in force in Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, Kansas, Arkansas, Colorado, Washington, Oregon and California.

The Age of Innocence in Man

Is that period which passes before he finds out how the other fellow is getting business away from him. He doesn't know that his competitor is using artistically engraved stationery and thus impressing prospective customers with his capacity for doing things right.

If you wish to see specimens of business fetching office stationery telephone to J. P. Stevens Engraving Co. (Ivy 7211) and ask for their city man to come to your office.

New York, February 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—There are today more unemployed actors and other stage people walking along Broadway and a hundred main streets looking for jobs than ever before. Everybody in Times square who knows anything about the theater, from the cutrate ticket hawker to the producer of a dozen hits, is complaining.

The tailors, landladies and boarding-house owners seem to feel the hard have sought a great many judgments these last weeks against stage folk who overlooked the rather prosaic duty of paying their bills.

Several well-known managers estimated today that half of the 15,000 actors in the United States, exclusive of vaudeville performers, were out of work.

For some reason the roaming tent shows and boat shows that play the small, smaller and smallest villages are said not to have felt a drop in attendance, and there are now 700 of them scattered over the Jand.

Aside from the general let-up in luxury buying, many reasons are given for the extremely hard times in the theater. The managers complain of unbearable overhead expenses—in-creased railroad fares and union reg-ulations. SAY NEGRO CONFESSED

TO MANY ROBBERIES Dannie Hines, negro, was arrested Thursday afternoon near Lawrence-ville through the efforts of city detectives, when he was caught driving an automobile which contained a number of crates of goods which had been sent to S. W. Woolworth, Atlanta, and will be taken to Gwinnett county Friday for trial, charged with car breeking. breaking.

He was brought to Atlanta, where he was grilled by city detectives, who say he confessed to a number of car robberies and that he involved others. Additional arrests are expected during the day.

The home of Fred Franklin, of 37
LaFayette street, was burglarized Thursday night while the occupants of the house were away. A quantity of clothing was stolen.

Thieves entered the home of R. A. Hutchins and stole a .22 caliber automatic pistol some time Thursday night. TO URGE ROAD

ATTENTION, SPECULATORS!

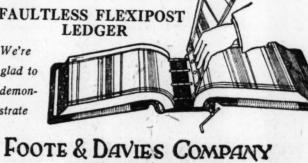

HOME BUYERS are overlooking their opportunities. The very ones who ought to be buying are not. Many good homes are now being sacrificed on account of owners leaving city; many good equities are offered cheap for cash. The speculator can buy these houses and rent them out so as to keep up payments, with a good chance to make a profit.

WHEN consumers will not act in their own interest the middleman should step in and get the benefit of a combination of circumstances.
